

Minnesota

In 2015, the Minnesota Department of Public Health conducted a retrospective surveillance study to gain insight on underreporting and underestimation of tick-borne disease (TBD), including Lyme, Anaplasmosis, and Babesiosis.

The estimated number of “actual” reportable confirmed TBD diagnoses was found to be nearly 3 times as many as the number reported.

lymestats.org